

GettingLegalDone (GLD™) Enhances its Contract Life-cycle Management Solution with the release of GLD v5

GLD v5 Fuels Momentum for its Cloud Technology—facilitates contract collaboration, exponentially reduces contract review thru Kiiac™ integration, adds auto-alerts for critical dates and supports Outlook and Word integration, as well as GTD™ (Getting Things Done) workflow.

HOUSTON, January 30, 2012 – GettingLegalDone (GLD), a unit of Bridgeway Software the most recommended provider of legal enterprise resource planning (ERP) solutions, today announced release of GLD v5.

“This release is the result of extensive research within our user base; listening to their success stories, discussing best practices, and expanding the overall business impact of GLD in their legal departments”, said Cathi Collins, Vice President of GettingLegalDone (GLD).

“GLD’s utilization of Kiiac’s document automation and benchmarking functionality is absolutely revolutionary – it’s like document assembly on steroids”, says Patrick O’Donnell, CEO of Bridgeway Software, Inc. A 5-hour contract review is reduced to minutes simply by ‘benchmarking’ to compare the contract being reviewed to a collective norm (or your own custom standards) – highlighting the non-conforming clauses, recommending better conforming clauses, and best of all – identifying critical clauses that should be there but are missing!

GLD v5 allows in-house legal groups, their business units and law firms to virtually team together for collaborative management of corporate contracts, agreements, and regulations. Adds Collins, “Technology is a critical component in today’s corporate legal departments and GLD’s cloud technology and v5 features help organizations more easily keep pace with the complex demands of their businesses.”
